Dear Del:

I was sorry not to be able to attend the luncheon in your honor last Friday but, as too often happens, at the last minute I was called on to coordinate on a priority project and couldn't get away.

Although we have not had too much opportunity for day-to-day contact, I have been very aware of the contribution you have made to the effective operation of the ICRS staff. Your initiative in improving utilization of available computer support facilities improved directly the effectiveness of the staff's collection targeting activity as well as promoted the development of more timely and meaningful reporting on the results of such collection. Your cooperative attitude and focus on getting the job done made their mark and will be remembered well by all of your associates.

I want to join your many friends in wishing you well as you close out your active service to the government and seek some well deserved rest and relaxation, and I sincerely hope that you and your wife will find the years ahead full of enjoyment.

Sincerely yours,

Chairman, COMIREX
